

INDIGO SUSTAINABLE ETF/MF MODEL

STRATEGY OVERVIEW

Capital creates change in the world. Investors of all sizes are interested in using their investment portfolios to help address complex social and environmental challenges. Our portfolio seeks to achieve positive environmental and social impact and competitive risk-adjusted returns over the long-term. As impact-oriented metrics increase in quality and availability, investors are able to take actionable steps toward building a more positive, resource-efficient economy.

PORTFOLIO CONSTRUCTION

The portfolio consists of 10-15 ETFs and Mutual Funds, offered in three styles depending on risk tolerance. Our holdings are chosen to create a diversified portfolio with exposure to ESG themes including: clean technology, renewable energy, environmental services, and gender diversity on the boards of companies. We are further spread across small and large cap holdings, and cover both domestic and international equities.

THREE STYLES

INVESTING WITH IMPACT

Evaluating sustainability factors for a company is not just "a good thing to do"; it is now widely considered to be part of a fiduciary's duty. Current research shows that using sustainable investment strategies usually meets – and often exceeds – the performance of comparable traditional approaches.¹ Our Indigo Sustainable Models align social and environmental impact goals with financial goals to achieve impact objectives without sacrificing performance potential.
